Incight hires new Executive Director

Incight's Board of Directors has announced that Keith Ozols will assume the role Executive Director at Incight.

For the past year and a half Mr. Ozols has been Incight's Program Officer, administering the organization's annual scholarships and education outreach programs.

As the Executive Director, Mr. Ozols will head the organization and report to Incight's board of directors. Incight educates and employs people with disabilities, enabling them to actively participate and contribute to society without limitations. Incight's goal is to prepare individuals with disabilities so they can successfully transition to college, graduate, secure employment and become financially independent. Ultimately, to empower them to develop an active social life and become civically involved so they can give back to their community and lead a fulfilling and self-directed life.

Vail Horton, the Chairman of the Board of Incight, expressed the board's enthusiasm in hiring Mr. Ozols for the position. The board, working closely with Incight staff identified the desired skill set and dedication required for the position.

"We were fortunate to be able to promote someone from within the organization," Said Horton. "Keith is someone who is completely dedicated to the mission and he already has a clear understanding of the organization and the areas of need in the disability community. More importantly, we feel that he is someone who is going to take Incight to the next level."

Mr. Ozols brings more than 7 years of management, program development and leadership to Incight. Before coming to Incight, he was a program manager at the Oregon Council for Hispanic Advancement where he worked with youth entering employment and postsecondary education. Mr. Ozols brings a strong command of program development in education services, social services, as well as work readiness and career development. Group work and consensus building are integral to his position and he is always striving to build partnerships with the organization's development department and community partners seeking innovative collaborations. Mr. Ozols holds a bachelors degree in English with a minor in Philosophy.
